

11th Anniversary Big Nasty Hillclimb Remains Eternally Nasty

By Ron Dillon

Idaho's largest motorcycle event, the 11th annual, Treasure Valley Ford Stores Big Nasty Hillclimb, fired up again on September 13-15, 2013 and brought together its usual eclectic mix of interesting hillclimbers, machines and fans. The event was the sixth and final round of the 2013 Racer X/Malcolm Smith Racing North American Hillclimb Association (NAHA) Championship Series, and once again pulled yet another record number of 813 entries from across the country. Besides the Treasure Valley Ford Stores, other heavy-hitter partners were: Camping World, Trailers Plus, Monster Energy, Coca-Cola, Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer, The Battery Exchange, Mickey Ray's BBQ, Edge Performance Sports, Cycle City of Mountain Home, and Maverik, Adventure's First Stop.

Known as "Idaho's largest motorcycle event," and "The place where NASCAR meets Burning Man" the Big Nasty finally had some mixed weather for the first time since 2004. Much of the time Big Nasty Land enjoyed perfect, 75 to 85 degree temperatures, but some crazy weather blew in and out at times, and Friday night's show actually had to be halted early because lightening was hitting the hill, which quickly turned into a pouring rainstorm. However Saturday morning dawned warm and clear all action resumed without further delay.

As usual, the typical Big Nasty, Woodstock/Burning Man feel continued in 2013. Children played in a carnival area with inflatable toys and rides, local bands played on Friday and Saturday nights, the usual gigantic fireworks show entertained at midnight on Saturday, full-blown, sanctioned mud drags pulled a record 80 entries from Idaho and Utah and ran Friday and Saturday. Yamaha, Arctic Cat, Polaris, Bombardier, Kawasaki, Suzuki and Honda, offered ATV and UTV demo rides all weekend, along with the usual helicopter rides. A new sanctioned snowmobile grass drag was also run on Saturday and drew a terrific first year turnout of 44 sleds, some of which hit well over 100 mph on their 400-foot course. And of course, some of the best professional and amateur hillclimbers in the world competed for three days on some really nasty hills.

Adding to the fair and festival type feel of Big Nasty Land, food vendors served up everything from blooming onions to burgers and assorted clothing, vehicle and other products also dotted the venue. "We once again sold out of sponsor and vendor space" said event director, Ron Dillon. "For the sixth year in a row, we had to turn potential sponsors and vendors away, and interest in the event was greater than ever. We are continuing to draw people from a wider and wider geographical area, especially Washington and Oregon, in part because the new, Yakima, Washington Hillclimb has created a lot of interest in hillclimbing, and added new competitors. We are also seeing more riders from California and Montana."

For the seventh year, the 310-foot trophy hill was lighted and hundreds of trophy riders, from young to old, climbed under the stars on Friday and Saturday nights. The trophy hill had been packed with fresh dirt earlier in the year and remained largely "ledge-free" enabling a fair number of riders to get over it, and many of the trophy classes, such as the 450 four-stroke trophy, and 450-600 altered classes, pulled huge numbers of entries.

The weekend's pro action began on Friday morning, with pro qualifying runs on a matching set of side-by-side 250-foot, very steep, very fast, straight hills which were well-watered and packed with fresh dirt, making these really fast, horsepower kinds of hills. Thus Sean Cardwell topped his brother Austin in the Open class qualifying with an awesome blast of 4.112 seconds, almost a full second than last year's top qualifier, and 33 pros broke the 5-second barrier this year in qualifying, versus one last year. California's Petey Krunich made his first-ever Big Nasty appearance and had the fastest 700 qualifying time with a 4.43, nipping Cody Young's 4.44, times that were a full second faster than 2012, and Utah's eternally young, Travis Whitlock had the fastest 450 qualifying time of 5.107, well over a second faster than last year. Pro qualifying took most of the day on Friday due to record numbers of entries in all three of the pro classes.

Registration continued throughout the day on Friday and many of the stock bike, trophy classes continued to show record growth, and also proved that two-strokes are still alive and well. On Friday night, both the 250 two-stroke and 250 four-stroke classes pulled large numbers of riders and required a lot of talent to win. Star, Idaho's Austin Kouba won the 250 two-stroke class with a time in the low 7's that was one of the fastest times of the weekend on the trophy hill, but fresh dirt pushed off of the top of the hill, made it a little longer and steeper than in the past and this year no 250 four-strokes could make it over, even though class winner, Matt Morris from Grants Pass, Oregon got his Suzuki up to nearly 243 feet, and also won the 125 class on a borrowed YZ125.

The women's pro class ran on a brand-new, 500-foot hill that was wickedly steep, and 16 women proceeded to have a knock-down, drag-out war that ran until the light was gone and the last half dozen women actually ran in darkness. Thus, officials decided to let the pro women take a rare, third run at the hill on Saturday morning, which shifted the results around a bit, although Utah's Brook Whitlock was the undisputed winner both days, getting to well over 300 feet on a hill that beat up most of the guys throughout the weekend. With the level of skill and guts that these women showed, it remains just a matter of time before a woman qualifies for one of the pro class mains. Yes, they are getting that good and the days of powderpuff girls are long gone.

The 450 pro main ran on Saturday afternoon on the standard, really tough and ledge-filled pro hill, and continuing his amazing season, Utah's Jason Smith once again topped a deep and talented field to win the class over Petey Krunich and Logan Mead.

Wild, side by side X-Climb competition returned to Big Nasty Land, and ran on the old, 500-foot semi-pro "gully" hill, and the crowd simply loved it. It was good stuff, with lots of bar-banging and nail-biting action, and after single-eliminations weeded down the 16-rider field, Kyle Widdiecombe, Jason Smith and Bret Peterson finished one, two and three.

Saturday night's show was comprised of the last of the stock trophy classes, as well as all of the altered trophy classes, which have shown incredible growth since rubble paddles and unlimited wheelbases are now allowed. Riders were started as quickly as possible, but even so, the last rider didn't leave the starting line until nearly 1am. Big winners included Bailey Kouba from nearby Star, Idaho, who topped nearly 70 other riders to win the incredibly competitive 450, 4-stroke trophy class. California's Joseph Allnutt repeated his 2012 win in the 250 altered class, then added to that by topping the 66-rider, 251-600cc altered class.

Also noteworthy was the continuation of the snowbike class, which put 450s with a small rear track instead of a tire, on the hill. Although they are made for snow, most of the class entries blew right over the top of the hill, with Nampa, Idaho's Alden Miller leading the pack followed by Sandpoint, Idaho's Derick Driggs and Dan Shanahan. Snowbike kits are continuing to gain popularity, and all three brands, Timbersled, 2Moto and Frozen Moto, were well represented on the hill. As if this wasn't enough fun, Driggs continued to play around on his machine all weekend, even chugging over the big, pro hill on Sunday, before finally being defeated by the King of the Hill cliff on Sunday afternoon.

On Sunday morning the 700 pro main fired up and Logan Mead uncorked the perfect (and fastest of the weekend) run up the pro hill to nip Jason Smith and Max Simmons. Later in the day, the Open pro main was also won by Logan Mead, topping last year's class winner, Travis Whitlock and Idaho's Pete Treadwell. Mead, the youngster, from Northern California, has really come into his own in the last 12 months, and is clearly one of the top five hillclimbers in the world at this point.

By 3pm, it was finally time for the long-awaited King of the Hill competition, which allowed the top three riders from the 450, 700 and Open Pro Mains to take one shot at the dreaded Big Nasty Cliff route, a hill so heinous that it has only been used once since it was abandoned at the end of the 2006 season as simply being too dangerous and ugly to safely ride. Five talented riders fought their way over the dry, ugly, vertical route that literally had a sheer, 12-foot cliff near the top. In the end, it came down to two masters of hillclimbing, one nearing the end of his incredible career, and the other just getting started. Travis Whitlock, aged 46, finally bested Logan Mead to win $1,500 in cash and get his name engraved on the Big Nasty KOTH trophy for the first time.

Next year's Big Nasty will be held on September 12-14, 2014, and discussions are well underway on how to make Idaho's largest motorcycle event an even better show in the future.

The organizers wish to extend a hearty "helmets off" to the sponsors, donators and partners: the title sponsor, The Treasure Valley Ford Stores, Trailers Plus, Monster Energy, Coca-Cola, Maverik, Adventure's First Stop, Edge Performance, Pabst Blue Ribbon, The Battery Exchange, Cycle City of Mountain Home, Mickey Ray's, Camping World, Nationwide Insurance, Carl's Cycles, Moto Tech, Jailbreak Bail Bonds, Buck's 4X4, KLIM, Frozen Moto, Vapology, Kiwi Loco, United Metals Recycling, Crawford's Pro-Tec, Trantula Tequila, Les Schwab Tires, Family Entertainment Satellite Systems, Rekluse, Rhino Linings of Boise, Scott Racing, My Bullfrog, Off-Road Vixens, Boondocker Performance, Idaho Star, Fly Racing, Pro-Moto Billet, Timbersled, Kouba Link, The Double Diamond Saloon, EZ Mart, Cheeky's, Idaho Star, Razorback Offroad, Dave's Excavation, Donoho Construction, Champion Electric and TQ Off-Road Bike Rentals.

A big thank you is also in order to the ranch owner, Tom Pence, and the small army of staff and volunteers who helped, including the Fly Racing, Big Nasty Catchers, headed by Derray Quarders. The event could also not have happened without the support of the Payette County Commissioners and law enforcement and medical personnel, as well as the Idaho State Police, and nearby landowners, George Colwell and Dan Bicandi, who helped insure that the front gate ran quicker than ever before.

Event DVDs are available, as well as t-shirts and hats. For more information visit the Big Nasty website at: www.bignastyhillclimb.com or call Ron Dillon at (208) 573-4255. Also check out YouTube, where dozens and dozens of film clips are posted.
